

The Holocaust Education Committee of the Quad Cities presents:

A World Erased: A Grandson's Search for His Family's Holocaust Secrets

With Noah Lederman

When: 6:30 pm, Tuesday, October 1, 2019

Where: Moline Public Library, 3210 41st Street, Moline, Illinois

Free and open to the public

Based on his book of the same title, this program traces the evolution of a young man's quest to uncover the stories of his grandparents' harrowing past—a riveting journey through repressed memory, unspeakable trauma, and the landmarks of European genocide that led the author to a fresh understanding of his family's wartime past and his own identity. A determined historian, dogged sleuth, and gifted storyteller, Lederman flecks his memoir with black humor and refreshing candor, illuminating how the horrors of the Holocaust are transmitted through the generations.

Noah Lederman is an award-winning writer whose work has been published in The Economist, the Boston Globe, the Miami Herald, the San Francisco Chronicle, the Philadelphia Inquirer, the Chicago Sun-Times, Slate, Salon, the New Republic, Tablet Magazine, the Jerusalem Post, Tikkun, and elsewhere. He lives on Long Island. .

For more information on this program, please contact
(309) 793-1300, aross@jfqc.org, or (309) 524-2440.

This program is sponsored by the Holocaust Education Committee of the Quad Cities, the Rauch Family Foundation II, the Moline Public Library, and the Jewish Federation of the Quad Cities.